Preface

The Mission appointed by the King to Carry the Order of the Garter to the Emperor of Japan left Harwich on the 1st of January 1906.

The Mission consisted of:

- His Royal Highness Prince Arthur of Connaught, G. C. V. O.
- Admiral of the Fleet Sir Edward Seymour, G. C. B.
- Lord Redesdale, G. C. V. O.
- General Sir Thomas Kelly-Kenny, G. C. B.
- Admiral Sir Arthur Davidson, C. V. O.
- Captain Wyndham, Equerry to Prince Arthur
- Mr. Miles Lampson, of the Foreign Office, Secretary to the Mission, and Acting Secretary to the order of the Garter.

It was composed as follows:

In February 1906 the King's nephew, Prince Arthur of Connaught, who had been commissioned by the King to invest the Emperor of Japan with the order of the Garter, left London for Japan with Lord Redesdale, Admiral Sir Edward Seymour, General Sir J. Kelley-Kenny, and Sir Arthur Davidson, all personal friends of the King. The King had made careful choice of the members of the mission, some months earlier, and wrote the list out in his own hand.

Introducing the Voyage of Captain John Saris

The Voyage of Captain John Saris to Japan, 1613. Edited from Contemporary Records by Sir Ernest M. Satow.
About 1615 he married Anne, daughter of William Leggs of Whitechapel and granddaughter (on her mother's side) of Sir Thomas Cambe, Lord Mayor in 1609--10. In the twenty-ninth year of her age and the eighth year of her married life she died on February 21, 1623, and was buried in the parish church of St. Botolph, Thames St. This building, described by Stow as "a proper church," stood on the south side of Thames Street, opposite the bottom of Bishop Lane. It was gutted down in the Great Fire, and was not rebuilt; and the "very fair monument in the wall of the South aisle," which Strype says was raised to her memory by her sorrowing husband, has of course disappeared.
